New Additions Join GRG Family

Firm also names new President, Paul D. Gibson

ORLANDO, FL., January 22, 2007 – GRG Inc., a national design and specialty consulting firm, has grown steadily in the past year. The firm completed a number of acquisitions and mergers in early 2007 and late 2006. Additionally, the company announced the appointment of Paul D. Gibson as President.

“Through planning, execution and maybe a little Divine Intervention, everything seems to have come together this past year”, said CEO Bill Beckman. “We have met wonderful people across the country with superb skills, who have similar values and beliefs. These additions significantly broaden our geography and experience base”.

JDA Consulting Engineers of Baltimore joined the GRG family of companies in January, 2007 through a stock-purchase. JDA is best known for providing Mission Critical, Science and Healthcare design services. JDA’s clients include Microsoft, Citigroup, Wachovia, AOL Time Warner and Sports Illustrated. When you think Mission Critical, think of processes or procedures that simply cannot be disrupted.

Also in January, GRG acquired the assets of Boston-based D&L Engineering, which provides expertise and tailored consulting services to the Mission Critical and Science markets. Some of D&L’s clients include Pfizer, New York Times, Pitney Bowes, Verizon, and Novartis.

A statutory merger with TKG Consulting Engineers, Inc. of San Diego and Seattle was completed in November, 2006. TKG is a well-known provider of innovative design services to the Science, Technology and Healthcare west coast markets. Clients include Scripps, Kaiser Permanente, and Merck.

In September, 2006 GRG acquired the assets of Gallegos Lighting Design, an award-winning lighting design firm located in Orlando and San Francisco. These lighting experts approach each project with the eye of an artist. Gallegos' designs have illuminated the Argosy Casino, Intel Corporation's corporate headquarters lobby, and the Long Beach Aquarium of the Pacific.

Headquartered in Maitland, Florida, GRG Inc. provides services through its family of companies – Earl Walls Associates, JDA Consulting Engineers and TKG Consulting Engineers – to the Entertainment, Gaming, Hospitality, Health Science, Mission Critical and Science markets. GRG Inc. currently employs more than 350 professionals in Atlanta, Baltimore, Boston, Houston, Las Vegas, Milwaukee, Orlando, San Diego and Seattle.
